Conclusion

The spouses of holders of the identification card of foreign nationals of Ethiopian origin are granted the right those Ethiopian origins have due to their connection to Ethiopia. For much of the rights, the holder of the ID enjoys what an ordinary Ethiopian enjoys. The trend has also been to lift restrictions in the participation of foreign nationals of Ethiopian origin ID holders for instance in the banking sector and adoption of Ethiopian children. As a comparison, for example, a foreigner marrying an Ethiopian national, shall have only the right to acquire residence permit. The spouses who marry Ethiopian nationals shall have NO right to own immovable property nor be considered as domestic investors. On the contrary, marrying an ID holder of Ethiopian Origin has many more privileges. Our immigration office needs to be robust and proactive in dealing with immigration issues of such type and make sure immigration rules are applied in uniformity having the policy perspective of the country in check.
